CONTINUUM HEALTH PARTERS NAMED
AMONG THE NATION'S "MOST WIRED" HOSPITALS/HEALTH SYSTEMS

New York, NY (July 18, 2012) Continuum Health Partners, which consists of four distinguished voluntary teaching hospitals including Beth Israel Medical Center, Roosevelt Hospital, St. Luke's Hospital, and New York Eye & Ear Infirmary, has once again been named one of the 2012 "Most Wired" healthcare systems in the United States, according to a nationwide survey conducted by the College of Healthcare Information Management Executives and American Hospital Association (AHA). Continuum has won this award several times over the past few years.

The survey, conducted annually and released in the July issue of Hospitals & Health Networks magazine, the journal of the American Hospital Association, recognizes organizations for their achievements in key areas, including infrastructure, business and administrative management, clinical quality and safety and the care continuum. The survey also included questions based on concepts of meaningful use – federal standards that must be met in order to be considered a "meaningful provider" of IT services and therefore eligible for federal incentive payments through the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. Meaningful use of electronic medical technology provides for reduced medical errors and better patient care.

"This designation is a testament to the level of information technology investment that we have made in our hospitals over the past decade," says Gail F. Donovan, Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer at Continuum. "It is also indicative of the hard work and dedication of our IT leadership, led by Mark Moroses, Continuum's Senior Vice President and Chief Information Officer, Gregg Husk, MD, Chief Medical Information Officer and the hundreds of IT staff and other members of the Continuum community involved in implementing, maintaining and using our IT systems to their optimal effectiveness."
