

The Wrongful Death Bill is Wrong for New York

The hospital community recently concluded a State budget campaign to inform New Yorkers about the dire financial condition of our hospitals. But the final budget still left numerous institutions financially struggling and teetering.

Now Albany is considering a wrongful death bill (A.6698/S.6636) that would make things profoundly worse. This bill would increase New York hospitals' already massive insurance costs by 40%, costing them an additional $625 million annually. This will push even more hospitals to the brink.

Every dollar spent on medical liability is a dollar that can't be spent on patient care. We call upon Albany to not force New York's hospitals to incur such steep and unnecessary new costs.
